Curu comes from the foothills of the Andes, in the Rio Grande Valley at an altitude of 900 meters, in the town of Monte Patria, a quiet place with dry weather and blue skies once night falls, in the sky of the valley of Rio Grande stars appear that give us an indication of the infinite beauty of the cosmos.

VALLEY

The Limarí Valley is located 470 km north of Santiago, in the Coquimbo region. The combination of cooling breeze from the Pacific Ocean and a hot, semi-desertic climate, with High minerality soils make Limarí an ideal valley for the production of fresh white and red wines. This Valley is also considered an oasis of natural beauty and amazing, green landscapes, also known for their delicious tropical fruits.

Through the traditional vinification and double distillation in old copper stills, is achieved to maintain the aromas and essence of our selected Muscat grapes.
